

COLLEGE-READY WRITERS PROGRAM (6-16)

WRITING FOR COLLEGE AND CAREER READINESS IN THE SECONDARY CLASSROOM

This open institute answers the contemporary call for respectful argumentative discourse to prepare students for college, career and civic engagement within an equity framework. Designed to improve teachers' ability to teach to college- and career-ready writing standards, with a specific emphasis on improving students' skill in writing arguments based on non-fiction texts, program participants will:

- learn to engage students in writing high-quality, source-based arguments
- examine curricular resources, rhetorically-based methods, and demonstration lessons
- utilize research-based methods of formative assessment to analyze student work
- identify ways to support all writers (including ELLs, GATE, and struggling students)

"Teachers' efforts are essential to prepare students to succeed in an age when the ability to think critically and creatively, communicate skillfully, and manipulate ideas fluently is vital."

—Arne Duncan, former U.S. Secretary of Education
