II. PERSONAL STATEMENT In 2-3 pages, provide a snapshot of writing in your classroom and consider the following prompts: What does writing instruction look like in your classroom? Who are your students and what do they do as writers? What are your successes and challenges in teaching writing? What inquiries into your teaching of writing would you like to investigate? What do you hope to experience in the SI?

III. NOMINATION LETTER Provide a letter from a nominating professional—an SDAWP Fellow, site administrator/department chair, peer, parent or someone else familiar with your work as an educator, a writer and a leader. Can be emailed separately to sdawp@ucsd.edu.

IV. RÉSUMÉ / CURRICULUM VITAE (CV) Include a 1-2 page résumé or your CV highlighting your educational background, teaching experience and professional affiliations.

WHO SHOULD APPLY? The SI is designed for educators with 3 years of teaching experience (or educational equivalent), K-college, who have experience with teaching writing and a desire to learn more. Applicants should have an interest in becoming part of a professional community of practitioners. All grade levels and disciplines are invited to apply, including teachers of math, science, English, art, social studies/humanities, English Language Development, music, PE, special education, and foreign language. Participants will explore the impact race, language, poverty, and privilege have on equity in teaching and learning. Successful completion of the SI offers opportunities for ongoing collaboration, professional development, and a variety of leadership roles.
